WOMEN'S HEALTH & MENTAL WELLBEING SPEAKERS SERIES

Fall 2010 – Winter/Spring 2011 Organizer: Dr Nazilla Khanlou Echo's Chair in Women's Mental Health Research Faculty of Health, York University

SUMMARY OF PRESENTATIONS

Presentation	Summary
October 6, 2010	Pat Campbell's discussion focused on Women's Priorities for a Changing Mental Health System. The discussion
Pat Campbell	explained ECHO's mission, vision & values as well as CEO, ECHO: Improving	changes and recommendations on mental health and Women's Health In Ontario	addictions reforms. To view the presentation slides, please visit
Title: Women's Priorities	http://www.yorku.ca/nkhanlou/documents/PatCampbellpre for a Changing Mental	sentation.pdf.
Health System
November 17, 2010	Dr. Bornstein's presentation focused on positive parenting.
	Presentation themes included positive youth development
Dr. Marc Bornstein	and parenting knowledge (such as parenting caring,
Senior Investigator, Head of	acceptance, and assistance). Being problem free does not
Child Health and Human	mean that children are fully prepared for life. Future
Development	reorientation includes human strengths values, courage, hope, and perseverance in a child. These values are Title: Positive Parenting	desirable in themselves, and they buffer against adversity and Positive Development	and compensate for deficiency.
in Children
January 26, 2011	Dr. Killian presented findings from a study focusing on
•	discourses of displacement and trauma from the 1974 war
Dr. Kyle Killian	in Cyprus. Presentation themes included traumatic
Associate Professor, School	elements in participant narratives, the powerful role of
of Nursing, Researcher	social support in ameliorating post traumatic symptoms,

Centre for Refugee Studies York University

Title: Trauma, Gender and Generation: Adaptation to War and Displacement

the impact of gender, and the healing process, as well as migratory stressors for refugee women and men. Participants' artwork reflected the meaning and significance of important themes from the study.

April 6, 2011

Dr. Nasim Haque
Director, Community Health,
Wellesley Institute &
Assistant Pro0fessor,
Lawrence S. Bloomberg,
Faculty of Nursing,
University of Toronto

Title: Effect of neighbourhood on immigrant women and their families perceived health Dr. Haque presented the methodology and selected findings from a qualitative research study "Exploring the link between neighbourhood and newcomer immigrant health." This research study was a collaborative project of the Wellesley Institute and York University, Dr. Nazilla Khanlou. The study was carried out under St. James Town Initiative, which is Wellesley Institute's signature community based health research and action project in the St. James Town neighbourhood www.sitinitiative.com

This descriptive qualitative study examined both the "place-based" characteristics of St. James Town (SJT) and individual-level factors, including newcomer immigrants' perceptions of the neighbourhood, their social relations, and their access to health and social services in the neighbourhood. The study focused on ethno-racial newcomer immigrant populations: Tamil, Filipino, and Chinese (Mandarin speaking) and compared their experiences with those of Canadian-born residents in the neighbourhood. The study also interviewed health and social service providers in SJT and the surrounding area.

May 4, 2011

Dr. Christine Jonas-Simpson

Assistant Professor, School of Nursing, Faculty of Health, York University

Title: Mothering Children Living with the Loss, Love and Continuing Presence of a Baby Sibling: A Research-Based Documentary In this presentation, Professor and Producer Christine Jonas-Simpson discussed arts-based research methodologies including research based drama, art and documentary as tools to understand and translate lived human experiences of grief and loss.

To date Professor Jonas-Simpson has produced three documentaries involving the agony of loss, continuing connections and new hope. To learn more about Dr. Jonas-Simpson and her research work, please visit http://www.yorku.ca/hlln/continuing-education-tools.html.

Unique to this presentation was the screening of, "Why did Baby Die? Mothering Children living with loss, love and continuing presence of a baby sibling" taken from a moving documentary of interviews, art and poetry of families coping with loss. The film screening was followed by a discussion which included themes in sibling bereavement and enduring difficulties for mothers as well as children.